O R D E R:

The Standing Handloom Committee of the All-India Cottage Industries Board has suggested in resolution 38 of the resolution passed at its first meeting, that all State Governments should establish State Handloom Committees on the model of the Central Handloom Committee, for advising them in regard to the development of handloom industry in the respective areas. The Government of India have commended this resolution to all State Governments and have requested ~~th~~ each Government to inform them of the action taken or proposed to be taken in the matter. This Government have examined the suggestion of the Standing Handloom Committee and have decided to constitute a Handloom Committee for the State ~~Committee of it~~ Madras. This Committee will be called the Madras Handloom Committee. It shall be the duty of the Committee to advise this Government generally on all matters relating to the protection and development of the handloom industry in the State. The following among other things shall also be the functions of the Committee.

(1) To examine the extent of financial and other assistance required by the industry and advise Government in the matter.

(2) To indicate the manner in which the Government can facilitate the sale of handloom cloth in the State.

(3) To suggest the concessions to be given by the Government to the handloom industry as against mill industry.

(4) To estimate from time to time the quality and quantity of yarn required for the handloom industry in this State (i.e. the assessment of the actual requirements of the industry as regards counts and varieties of yarn in each area of the State).

(5) To suggest the improvements to be introduced in the industry and plan production so as to cater to the ~~re~~ requirements of the local population to the extent possible.
